Jungs of a socio-economic milieu, mostly children of working-class parents, are found in the novels of Hermann Hesse (1877-1962). Yet this milieu is a stage of development for the individual and society alike and leads to the discovery of the inner world, the "otherness," in which the life of the "I" (the inner, personal, individual man) and of the "ego," the social and physical man, are inextricably bound together. Versand über pc, Audiobook. In this work, the titles of thirty-two publications, serials and books are given. Of particular interest in this list are the works of the New York Herald Tribune and of its two principal editors, Joseph Pulitzer and Charles Dana Gibson, and the volumes of the Bookman containing the novels of the Munich critic Karl Hillebrand.
