The program can automatically update the information it extracts from the online sources. The application also allows a manual update from the options menu. Key features: Traders Monitor can display prices from the following online sources: NASDAQ, NYSE, CBOE, FTSE, and LSE Track more than 500 stocks Compatible with Windows 2000, XP, Vista, 7 and 8 Automatically update prices from online sources in real time File exports to text or CSV Allows two additional filters and the automatic refresh of information If you have any questions or suggestions on how to improve this program, feel free to contact usQ: How to automatically reference the current directory in vimrc? I have a directory structure like so: /A/B/image.png /A/C/image.png /A/D/image.png /A/E/image.png and so on. I want to be able to type a command like :e xxx/image.png and be taken to the file image.png from inside each of the directory A, B, C, D, E, etc. What is the best way to do this? Vimrc syntax/bindings for such a task? A: You can set your path to include the current directory using one of the following methods: Use set path=% to force Vim to always use a directory tree, regardless of the current directory. Use set path=*. to force Vim to always search every single directory for files, regardless of any wildcard matching. You could then use a Vimscript function to recursively edit your files. Example: function! RecursiveEdit(filename) let path = fnamemodify(a:filename, ':p') exe 'edit '. path endfunction command! RecursiveEdit
