- Use the crop tool when you want to remove from your art objects from the original design, or crop the art to a specific size.
- If you use layers, learn how to move them, delete them, or lock them. You can also make them transparent with the eyedropper tool.
- When dealing with masks, play around with them. Try switching layers with options to see the differences.
- When resizing to make sure you are "saving for web" – a common mistake is people resizing their work and then saving it (often for a print piece) as they had originally intended and it results in a much smaller file size. Make sure to experiment and always save for web. In the Tags menu, Photoshop will offer you a "Save for web" option, however, some websites may not allow you to upload images with changes in them, so download it to a hard drive and upload that way. Learn how to use proper divider styles for keeping your files organized.
