It's an unusual concept — usually we hear about rare medical conditions that aren't seen very often. However, we've all had those medical conditions that we're not sure what's going on with. And on this platform, people can share their stories of how they've developed a new medical condition, or how they've had an old one come back. Think of it like a CDC for healthcare: rather than by-the-book documents, it's a virtual medical journal. Participants can upload their medical records through a simple, easy-to-use online interface. But beyond that, they have the option of recording a video about their health condition. The pilot program was started after the WHO was approached by a patient who'd developed a strange condition after being flown around the world in first class on United Airlines. The program, called My Health Story, will be on a rolling basis, and the WHO hopes that people can share their experiences and treatments and potentially provide new insights into diseases and conditions.Epson projectors Epson projectors are high-power projectors used for showing video images of pictures and animations. They are usually used in workshops and conferences, with a wider range of options available. Recent models typically use CRT technology.
